

From 2019 onward, I developed a series of ceramic sculptures in my workshop using dense clay bricks that would strike the balance between lightness and weight, full and empty, dense clay matter and hollow spaces punctured by shafts of light. In due time this workshop using dense clay bricks punctured by shafts of light led me to embark in the pursuit of a basic clay work that this space. In the meantime this sculptures created by shafts of light opened up a myriad of unexpected creative possibilities and resulted in the first brick modular structures.
